Forensic Hypnosis – Universal Acceptance

Written by, Jerome Beacham PhD

One of the major theories everyone has regarding forensic hypnosis is that it is not applicable in my state or country. This misnomer is far from the truth. The United States Supreme Court and all of the States of the union with the exception of Vermont, have legal cases that involve Forensic Hypnosis. The only reason that Vermont has nothing on it's books, is that the cases involved have settled out of court, therefore they have not set a precedent in their state.

The main reason that Forensic Hypnosis is accepted universally is that a uniform procedure and protocol is followed to the letter. In other words the forensic hypnotist in Michigan would follow the same procedure as the forensic hypnotist in South Afrika, Hong Kong or England. This allows for continuity in the quest of information gathering and helping law enforcement agencies and other information gathering entities to keep their doors open to this discipline.

The feed back from all of the IMDHA's Certified Forensic Hypnotist's have been very encouraging for the new student's who are taking the training. One of the most difficult tasks' for them to overcome is the tendency to use therapeutic methods to "find the truth". This they soon realize, is impossible. Therefore they must be retrained to think and act as a forensic hypnotist.

For this reason, is why the training that the IMDHA provides for its students is very intensive and focused. The Forensic Hypnotist Training is licensed by the State of Michigan and accepted worldwide. It is also a useful and profitable skill that can only make your hypnosis practice much more viable.
